Trust supply of the State, at 79 to 83 Burfalo street.

Dozens of frame buildings along Milwaukee and Jefferson streets, between Detroit and Chicago, as well as on Buffalo and Chicago ostreets, were licked up as if they had been merely outlines of paper. All these buildings were consumed within hair an hour of the time when the flames leaped over Broadway.

Buddenly the wind shitted. It was northeast when the first siarm rang, it was now aimost due south, and the nected out a broad avenue of destruction towards the Milwaukee River and Lake Michigan. In its path lay the big ireight sheds and the yards of the Chicago and Northwestern road, together with the round-house and its valuable contents or rolling stock. The end of the freight shed at the corner of Chicago and Jefferson streets, was the first to ignite, and the flames soon spread to every part of the yards.

Pitteen long trains of ireight cars stood on the Northwestern tracks, and when a billow of fire leapen across Van Buren street to the south and of the frei.Int-house a million dollars worth of railroad property was doomed. The vested interests most affected are those of wharf owners and shippers, who claim that the present structure drives away much business from them, because ships cannot pass under the bridge." says one pier owner, "the whole character of sailing ships has changed. A 500-ton schooner was a big one ten years ago, but nowadays they build "2,000-tonners. Then they used spliced masts, to be holsted or lowered with tackle. Now they build masts in two parts only, and tailer than 1135 feet."

The Board of Engineers is composed of Gen. H. L. Abbott, tea. C. H. Comstock, tol. D. C. Houston and Lieut.-tol. to. L. Gillespie.

Capt. Ambrose Snow said that owners of dock properties above the present bridge have to pay the expense of lowering top-galant masts on the vessels of their patrons, but supt. Martin stated that during the year only seven vessels had been obliged to lower masts to pass under it.

President Frederick Uhiman said that if a change was ordered the Company must obtain ancw the sanction of that State authonities to build, and all the estimates would have to be made over.

Severe westerly gales have been prevailing Jacob Astor from a similar fate in 1862, in the Feninsular campaisn. Col. Silloways served four years and eight months in the army and navy during the war, and from April, 1861, to February, 1863, he served his country without pay or reward of any kind. A heavy fog prevailed at the time the ship struck. A heavy sea is still running about the wreck.

He knew all the Union repersis and Secretary Stanton and Mr. Welles. He was lieutenant-colonel on Gen. McCellan's staff in 1862. Col. Sillowaye is a practical printer, engineer and linguist. He has set up works in Greek, French, Spanish, Latin and Hebrey. He was employed during five years at Oxford, Eng., on Homan's Greek Bible, and there, in 1859, the degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him. His first wife was a daughter of Sir William Blackle, and niece of Sir Richard Houghton. His present wife is a relative of Hon. William M. Evaris, and a very gifted indy.
Col. Sillowaye is a very modest man, and only consented to talk to the writer after it was shown that it would be criminal for him to keep his knowledge to himself while others suffered. So here is his story as it fell from his lips. He saw it written out, and he indorsed every word

One conversation between a man and a girl w.s. especially amuging. After a few preliminary passages of an interesting nature the couple, unconscious of listeners, began "blowing kisses" to each other through the telephone and afterwards describing the effect produced.

First we heard a girlish giggle, followed by a faint smacking sound, and then a shrill treble voice asking with keen solicitude: "Did you get that one? Shail I send you another?" answered by a gruff bass, saying: "Wait a bit till I've recovered from the first one," and so on. The girl then sang "In Old Madrid," which came out remarkably clear and was as much appreciated apparently by the person for whom it was intended as the listeners on the free list.
